

Membership Agreement

The Coalition to Protect Food Donations (CPFD) is a broad-based coalition of businesses, nonprofits, community organizations, and hunger-relief providers working to ensure that surplus food feeds families, strengthens local nonprofits, and is supported by fair, workable policies.

Millions of pounds of good food are donated each year, sustaining food banks, pantries, shelters, and faith-based charities. However, a drafting error in the One Big Beautiful Bill Act (OBBBA) unintentionally discourages food donations by limiting charitable deductions for surplus food. This flips the incentive — making it cheaper for businesses to throw food away than to donate it.

Without action, millions of meals could be lost, nonprofits weakened, and businesses forced to absorb higher costs to donate. A narrow, bipartisan technical correction will fix this issue, ensuring that businesses and communities can continue to keep good food feeding families — not landfills.

By joining, you will:

- Protect critical programs that sustain food rescue.
- Show leadership in supporting a bipartisan, common-sense solution.
- Strengthen networks that hunger-relief organizations rely on.
- Demonstrate your organization's commitment to efficiency, fairness, and community impact.
